Roadmap for Successful Urban Agriculture

Urban farms are complex systems that encompass a wide range of interests, including the local community. JHU doctoral student Melissa Poulsen will discuss her research in understanding community perceptions of urban agriculture and how to foster community engagement.

Thurs, November 13
3:30 pm
Gilman Hall, Room 50
JHU Homewood campus

Melissa Poulsen is a fifth year Ph.D. student in the Department of International Health at Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. She received a B.S. in Biology from Carleton College and a MPH from the University of Michigan. Melissa is a recipient of the 2012-13 E²SHI Fellowship.

For more info, visit http://e2shi.jhu.edu