The Scientific Foundation of Social Communication George H. Elder, 1999 The purpose of this book is to review and apply modern findings that provide theoretical, critical, and practical insights into rhetoric's classical canons of invention, arrangement, style, memory, and delivery. Collectively, the still-vibrant canons address persuading, informing, and pleasing audiences, although they also embody many other pedagogical and communication orientated purposes. However, the text is not bound by the canons, because findings are also related to a wide range of contemporary communication doctrines and scholarly perspectives. Hence a postmodernist may benefit from examining how schema theory is useful in explaining the formation of epistemes while a classic scholar can find valuable new insight into how the ancients' mnemonic systems operate. This book is an outstanding research tool with over 1,800 scientific and humanistic sources that are directly related to issue like linguistic relativity, lexical access, symbols and semantic association, argument as movement, decision-making processes, stylistic tools, audience analysis, and a host of other rhetoric and communication issues.

Teaching New Literacies in Grades 4-6 Barbara Moss, Diane Lapp, 2009-11-23 Upper-elementary students encounter a sometimes dizzying array of traditional and nontraditional texts both in and outside of the classroom. This practical handbook helps teachers in grades 4-6 harness the instructional potential of fiction, poetry, and plays; informational texts; graphic novels; digital storytelling; Web-based and multimodal texts; hip-hop; advertisements; math problems; and many other types of texts. Twenty-four complete lessons promote critical literacy skills such as comprehending, analyzing, and synthesizing information and using writing to communicate new ideas and pose questions. Snapshots of diverse classrooms are accompanied by clear explanations of the research base for instruction in each genre. Ready-to-use reproducibles are included.

Telecinematic Stylistics Christian Hoffmann,Monika Kirner-Ludwig,2020-05-14 Over the last two decades, the study of discourse in film and television has become one of the most promising research avenues in stylistics and pragmatics due to the dazzling variety of source material and the huge pragmatic range within it. Meanwhile, with the advent of streaming and the box set, film and television themselves are becoming separated by an increasingly blurred line. This volume closes a long-standing gap in stylistics research, bringing together a book-level pragmastylistic showcase. It presents current developments from the field from two complementary perspectives, looking stylistically at the discourse in film and the discourse of and around film. This latter phrase comes to mean the approaches which try to account for the pragmatic effects induced by cinematography. This might be the camera work or the lighting, or the mise en scène or montage. The volume takes a multimodal approach, looking at word, movement and gesture, in keeping with modern stylistics. The volume shows how pragmatic themes and methods are adapted and applied to films, including speech acts, (im)politeness, implicature and context. In this way, it provides systematic insights into how meanings are displayed, enhanced, suppressed and negotiated in both film and televisual arts.
