Brisbane Refidex Street Directory 2022 66th UBD Gregory's,2021-07-28 The latest edition of the UBD Gregorys Brisbane refidex has been fully revised and updated. Offering clear, comprehensive mapping at the best scale this directory is an essential tool when navigating your way around Brisbane and its surrounding suburbs including comprehensive sections for the Gold and Sunshine Coasts. You will find all the detail you have come to expect from a UBD Gregorys product with the latest updates on the streets you need to navigate. If you have not updated your directory for 3 years you will be missing road upgrades, new suburbs and over 1400 new streets. As well as the many new streets included in the directory there is an easy to read street index with over 58,750 street listings. There is also a suburbs and localities listing including postcodes, and over 9,000 facilities listed. CBD maps at a scale of 1:5 000 and an index to buildings for these maps, main road maps covering from Boreen Point in the north to Mooball (NSW) in the south, a bridge clearance heights listing, and eleven state maps with an index to towns. More than ever you can trust your UBD Gregorys street directory to get you to your destination safely and on time. Inclusions in this 2022 edition of the Brisbane refidex are over 350 new streets development in the subdivisions of Burpengary, Collingwood Park, Coomera, Flagstone, Greenbank, Logan Reserve, Nambour, Park Ridge, Pimpama, Sippy Downs, Spring Mountain, Yarrabilba plus developments in over 40 other suburbs. Two new maps on the Sunshine Coast covering the new suburb of Nirimba. With all the information in this new edition now is an ideal time to replace your old Brisbane refidex.

The Land is a Map Luise Hercus,Flavia Hodges,Jane Simpson,2009-03-01 The entire Australian continent was once covered with networks of Indigenous placenames. These names often evoke important information about features of the environment and their place in Indigenous systems of knowledge. On the other hand, placenames assigned by European settlers and officials are largely arbitrary, except for occasional descriptive labels such as 'river, lake, mountain'. They typically commemorate people, or unrelated places in the Northern hemisphere. In areas where Indigenous societies remain relatively intact, thousands of Indigenous placenames are used, but have no official recognition. Little is known about principles of forming and bestowing Indigenous placenames. Still less is known about any variation in principles of placename bestowal found in different Indigenous groups. While many Indigenous placenames have been taken into the official placename system, they are often given to different features from those to which they originally applied. In the process, they have been cut off from any understanding of their original meanings. Attempts are now being made to ensure that additions of Indigenous placenames to the system of official placenames more accurately reflect the traditions they come from. The eighteen chapters in this book range across all of these issues. The contributors (linguistics, historians and anthropologists) bring a wide range of different experiences, both academic and practical, to their contributions. The book promises to be a standard reference work on Indigenous placenames in Australia for many years to come.

Drake's Road Book of the Grand Junction Railway from Birmingham to Liverpool and Manchester active 1825
James Drake, 2019-12-04 James Drake's 'Drake's Road Book of the Grand Junction Railway from Birmingham to Liverpool and Manchester' is a comprehensive guide to the newest mode of transportation in the early 19th century. The book not only provides practical information for travelers, such as distances and landmarks along the railway route, but also includes detailed descriptions of the towns and cities connected by the railway. Drake's writing style is straightforward and informative, catering to the practical needs of travelers. This book is a valuable resource for understanding the impact of the railway on society and commerce during the Industrial Revolution. Drake's detailed observations and meticulous descriptions offer a glimpse into the rapidly changing landscape of Britain in the 19th century. Historians and enthusiasts of railway history will find this book an essential addition to their collection. James Drake's expertise as a cartographer and travel writer is evident in this meticulously researched and well-presented guide, making it a must-read for those interested in the history of transportation and urban development.

Concrete Jungle Niles Eldredge, Sidney Horenstein, 2014-10-23 If they are to survive, cities need healthy chunks of the world's ecosystems to persist; yet cities, like parasites, grow and prosper by local destruction of these very ecosystems. In this absorbing and wide-ranging book, Eldredge and Horenstein use New York City as a microcosm to explore both the positive and the negative sides of the relationship between cities, the environment, and the future of global biodiversity. They illuminate the mass of contradictions that cities present in embodying the best and the worst of human existence. The authors demonstrate that, though cities have voracious appetites for resources such as food and water, they also represent the last hope for conserving healthy remnants of the world's ecosystems and species. With their concentration of human beings, cities bring together centers of learning, research, government, finance, and media—institutions that increasingly play active roles in solving environmental problems. Some of the topics covered in Concrete Jungle: --The geological history of the New York region, including remnant glacial features visible today --The early days of urbanization on Manhattan Island, focusing on the history of Central Park, Collect Pond, and Manhattan Square --The history of early railway lines and the development of New York's iconic subway system --The problem of producing enough safe drinking water for an ever-expanding population --Prominent civic institutions, including universities, museums, and zoos Improvising Theory Allaine Cerwonka,Liisa H. Malkki,2008-11-15 Scholars have long recognized that ethnographic method is bound up with the construction of theory in ways that are difficult to teach. The reason, Allaine Cerwonka and Liisa H. Malkki argue, is that ethnographic theorization is essentially improvisatory in nature, conducted in real time and in necessarily unpredictable social situations. In a unique account of, and critical reflection on, the process of theoretical improvisation in ethnographic research, they demonstrate how both objects of analysis, and our ways of knowing and explaining them, are created and discovered in the give and take of real life, in all its unpredictability and immediacy. Improvising Theory centers on the year-long correspondence between Cerwonka, then a graduate student in political science conducting research in Australia, and her anthropologist mentor, Malkki. Through regular e-mail exchanges, Malkki attempted to teach Cerwonka, then new to the discipline, the basic tools and subtle intuition needed for anthropological fieldwork. The result is a strikingly original dissection of the processual ethics and politics of method in ethnography.

Discovering Matthew Vivienne Freestone,2022-02-20 Matthew is a boy out of place in the world, and he doesn't know why. Can he find his place and space to be the person he knows he can be? Michael is a man for whom life has always been hard work. Even though he has a great job, and seemed to have everything he wanted - a family, a loving wife - he has somehow lost the very best of that life and doesn't understand why. Jeannie has worked hard to love the important people in her life, but now she needs a complete change - moving to a rural area, starting again. Can she make it work, and can she find love again? Will the reasons for that move eventually catch up with her and her family? Will it take a disaster to bring them together, or will the consequences of that disaster be far reaching?

Where Birds Sing and Wildflowers Dance Jason Tyndall, Nature Play SA, 2021-06-17 This guide is more than a book. It's a renewed narrative of connecting to nature and ourselves. Drawing on art and science, it crafts a beautiful and compelling story of South Australia's wildlife, plants, and ecosystems. It explores notions of self - such as love, belief, doubt - while entwining ecological concepts of habitats, symbiotic relationships, fire, environmental clearance, species behaviour, extinction, and recovery. It is a bold approach to conservation education and seeks to open the pathway to recognising nature is at the centre of who we are, as people and as a collective. Within the 368 pages, you will find a collection of poetry, photography, ideas to connect with nature and over 680 species of plants, animals, and other life forms (including over 70 with a conservation rating). This guide is for the dreamers, adventurers, creative souls, and conservationists: it's your companion to exploring and reflecting on South Australia's wild places.

Creative Industries and Urban Development Terry Flew, 2013-10-31 The concept of creative industries has developed considerable academic and policy momentum in the 21st century. There has been a connection identified between the rise of creative industries and the urbanisation of the world's population, particularly in relation to the significance of cities as sites of cultural production and consumption. Much of the work on creative industries and cities, however, has drawn upon 'imagined geographies' about the relationship between creativity and place. This collection draws together contributions that critically appraise recent urban cultural policy discourses, as well as reflecting on the role of culture and creative industries in the future development of cities. This book is based on a special issue of The Information Society: An International Journal.

Mapping Ecosystem Services Benjamin Burkhard, Joachim Maes, 2017 The new book Mapping Ecosystem Services provides a comprehensive collection of theories, methods and practical applications of ecosystem services (ES) mapping, for the first time bringing together valuable knowledge and techniques from leading international experts in the field.
